Points About the Peccary. Terror of the Forest.

He is Small, But He Makes Things Hus

"There are people out West-away out West, I mean, among the Rocky Mountains and beyond them—who in-sist that the mountain lion is the king of American beasts," said a New Yorke who spent several years in the country grizzly bear is entitled to the throne of the animal kingdom on this continent. Still others say that neither the mountain lion nor the grizzly bear can have any pretention to a kingly title while the silver-tip-that penderous offspring of the savage grizzly himself and the sents his formidable claim to the dis tinction. But, for all that, I want to say that peither lion, grizzly, nor American wild beasts as long as the meek-looking, mast-eating, little white-lipped peccary roots and grunts around the scrub oak and other mas and nut-bearing areas of the wild

Or perhaps some great hulk of a grizzly or a swaggering silvertip, carrying nearly a ton of concentrated malevolence around with him, has been running things with him, has been running things with a high paw in some community. A peccary is a solid chunk of his kind if he weighs 200 pounds. But let either grizzly or silvertip, swaggering along these little chaps nosing around after his dinner among the fallen mast. Instantly the swagger is gone. The bear suddenly acts as if he wishes he wasn't He tries to draw himself into puts all the speed he can into his enor-mous legs as he turns his tail upon the

"As a rule the peccary isn't looking for a fight, He doesn't prey on other animals, and a dozen men may ride past a feeding drove of them without paying any attention unless some one of the party is so unwise as to fire a shot into the drove. If one peccary is hurt the whole drove, and there may be a hundred or more in it, instantly abandons all other business as one peccary, and never does another thing until the injury done to one of its number is avenged, if vengeance is possible. If he is overtaken and sur-rounded, it will not be the work of ten seconds for the peccaries to strew the plain with infinitesimal fragments of himself and his horse. If a man on foot should be foolbardy enough to fire into a drove of peccaries, and one of them should give the peculiar snort that calls for vengeance, it is hardly necessary to say that the smoke of his gun would have scarcely cleared away before he would be separated into bits so small that one big enough to make the proverbial grease spot could not possibly be found. The bear's progress was not only stopped, but his powerful grasp upon the bark was broken, and he fell back to the ground. Instantly every pair of tusks that could find a place to rip and tear on the great body of the bear was cutting and slashing furiously. . The bear hurled the swarm of peccaries right and left with a sweep of his enorthe hill. Another swoop of his paws sent others of the drove flying in all directions, and the bear made another dash for the tree. WHAT IS COURAGE?

The one first, best, highest quality that we recognize inman is moral courage. Physical courage may be a matter of physical condition, and is common to animals. The bravest animal only fights when it is hungry or called upon to protect its young, or to defend itself, or in the mating season. There aver was a man born of woman brave enough to fight a black cat in a dark coom voluntarily, with no one to have knowledge of the encounter or to look on and applicate.

At the last fair at Tarascon, France, there were, of course, assembled a troup of gymnasts, jugglers, acrobats and a multitude of menageries, in one of which was an Asiatic elephant remarkable for the largeness of his ears. His owner called him "Kiouki II."

Among the acrobatic troupe was a make of red baloons, so popular in England and America. He travels with the show, and seduced a couple of sous from the pocket of many a patron of it by selling him the show.

been fished up-the very one he used just a hundred years ago—and is now on exhibition in the show window of an enter-prising dealer in leather goods on the Unpag Fight. Upper Rialto. George's purse, boots, swords, breeches, epaulots, gauntlets, body servants, farewell addresses, hatchets, racing accounts and betting books have from time to time been exhibited under the due authentication to his grateful foster-countrymen. It is evident, now that his trunk has be is evident, now that his trunk has been found, that there will be "more to follow." It is a smail hair trunk, apparently in excellent preservation, about thirty-two inches long by fourteen high, adorned and secured as well by red leather strips nailed on with brass-headed tacks and fi ted out with black, solid-looking iron handles of much the same outward semblance, on a smaller scale, as the old-fashioned much the same outward semblance, on a smaller scale, as the old-fashioned iron door-knocker. This trunk was the nearest approach George had to a dress-suit case. A change of ruffles and stockings and an extra suit with his silver dressing-case—for George was very neat and particular about his personal habits—would just about have filled this trunk up. It could not have possibly have held more than an extra pair of shoes in addition, for George wore number thirteens, and never found them unlucky. This size of his boot is historic. Somebody ought to find a bootjack of the father of our country, and exhibit it, likewise a corkscrew, a pack of cards, a pocket pistol and a ready letter writer. This is

Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can CURED By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrotula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrotulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she scems to be a healthy

DR. WARNER'S celebrated Coraline Health Corsets have one peculiarity which pertains only to corsets of their make. The bust retains its shape to the end, and the corset imparts to the wearer a wellproportioned and beautiful figure. The corset is boned with Coraline, a substance superior to the finest whalebone. Made in short, medium and extra long waists.

There are many imitations, but you will find "Dr. Warner's Coraline" printed on the inside of every genuine corset. They are sold by your nearest dry goods dealer. WARNER BROS. Mnfrs., New York and Chicago.

These Coaches have Porters in sharge to look after the Comfort and welfare of the Emigrant and to see that the Local Passengers are not allowed to get in the Through Coach and erowd them. No other route offers such indeadments. It would tax your time and patience too much to attempt to describe the rich and beautiful homes and fertile lands of Arkansas and Texas. Therefore I would advise you te go and see for yourself. Examine the country. Mingle with the people. Learn the advantages and disadvantages. Examine the school facilities. Buy or rent a farm, or take up Government Land, and go to work.

People emigrating from the Sentheast cannot endure the extreme cold of Kansas, Mensak, and the Northwesters winter. Just think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and think of it—nine long months of ies, snow and butter winds in exchange for our Sunny South! Our well-timbered land for their reveless knates! Yet there are unscruptions grants whe give glowing descriptions of the Northwester. Ho set be deceived: Visit Arkansas and Texas and be your own judge!
